

15 DEAD AS "GAS" TANKS EXPLODE

And About Fifty More are Hurt By Terrific Blasts and Fire at Memphis Oil Plant—Many Houses Burned.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 24.—Between 15 and 25 workmen were killed and more than 50 were injured in a terrific explosion of two great gasoline tanks at the plant of the Gayoso Oil and Mining Company today. Most of the dead were negroes.
The whole city was rocked by the blast. Houses for more than a block in every direction from the scene of the explosion were wrecked. Fire followed the explosion and many dwellings in the vicinity were burned.

The force of the detonation carried masses of flaming debris which started numerous blazes in the neighborhood.

Twelve bodies were recovered within a few hours, but all were so badly charred that identification was impossible.

Every fireman, policeman and ambulance in the city was rushed to the scene. The spectacular panorama ward through vast billows of black smoke, drew thousands of spectators and the police had difficulty in keeping them outside the danger zone.

NIGHT RIDERS

WORRY CROWDS

WORRY GROWERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Lexington, Ky., Jan. 24.—Tobacco growers of Bath and Fleming counties are greatly worked up today over the threats of violence made by night riders who swept through this district late Saturday and early Sunday, warning the farmers to haul in more tobacco to the Carlisle and Flemingboro markets. Outbreaks in other countries are feared.

An investigation was begun today by the authorities, and drastic punishments are promised. The authorities fear that violence that marked the tobacco war of 1903 in Kentucky may be repeated.

James N. Kehoe, of Mayastville,

President of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Organization, a body organized to promote the elimination of the tobacco crop next year, strongly condemned the night riders to day.

"Use of force is a great mistake," Kehoe said today, "and no possible good can come from it."

IN A REBELLIOUS MOOD.

Philadelphia seems to be in a rebellious mood. Part of its celebration of the first anniversary of prohibition consisted of acid sarcasms in its newspapers and a broadside from one of its most distinguished medical men. In an address before the Business Science Club, Dr. Hobart Amory Hare, professor of therapeutics and diagnosis in Jefferson Medical College, declared that "thousands of normal human beings are deprived of the beneficial effects of alcohol so that a few 'rotters' may be saved who might well be eliminated, that their species might not be perpetuated." The Philadelphia Public Ledger refers sarcastically to the confiding belief that the workingman, instead of beating his wife as of yore, now "kisses her a fond adieu and goes forth to deposit the residue of a year of sobriety in a savings bank."

As to the actual situation the Public Ledger says: "The country is scourged by a sweeping wave of sordid crime. An illicit traffic in liquor flourishes. The machinery of law enforcement is honeycombed with graft. The gripping fingers of authority are eased and softened by the benefaction of easy money. Beating the law is become an accomplishment and is regarded as an achievement. The persistent and continuous search is for something with a 'kick.' Drinking was never before so strongly marked by outbreaks of riot and disorder. It is no flight of fancy to say that children have mastered the trick of throwing their own potatoes and that they point proudly to the stings which lie within such breads lubricants." Even the thoughtful prohibitionist will agree with the Public Ledger that "the country should not bury its head in the sand" and "should know the truth as to conditions." The country can know the truth only if the newspapers print the facts, and this the Public Ledger urges.

BRINGING HOME THE FACTS.

The final disposition of unused balances of funds raised for specific purposes sometimes presents a serious problem to the custodians of such funds, which the Knights of Columbus believe they have solved so far as the United War Fund is concerned. The fund was collected by seven welfare organizations during the war and disbandment of the army finds it with an unexpended balance of approximately $5,000,000. The Knights of Columbus has voted that its share of this fund, amounting to about $500,000, should be turned over to Herbert Hoover's European Relief Council, provided the other organizations sharing in the fund take similar action.

The objects for which this fund of $200,000,000 was raised have ceased to exist. There remains a serious condition in Europe, however, to prevent the recurrence of which by German aggression the war was fought. We fought to save suffering Europe in the future. We know there is intense suffering there now, directly due to the war. We fought to save the lives of future generations, but was it without a thought of those now living? It is possible to use the balance of the United War Fund to relieve the present suffering in Europe. Or is it possible to fool it away in extravagances not contemplated or intended when the fund was raised. Or is it possible to keep the fund idle by various means for an indefinite period during which no good is derived from it.

The history of relief funds has shown that unexpended balances, instead of being put to some sensible and charitable purpose, have sometimes been frittered away for the glorification of individuals whose self importance never can be bolstered up except at other people's expense. The day for such waste and extravagance should end. Contributors to funds of any character want their money used for that purpose and not for the mental and social relief of people who have like values around them, that does not belong to them.

If the balance of the United War Fund should be divided among the seven welfare organizations by which it was raised, and then should be pro-rated among the communities which raised it, for local purposes, Kingston and Ulster county would receive two and one-half per cent of the amount raised here for the fund. When this amount again should be sub-divided among the seven participating organizations, would the results which could be accomplished by any organization be comparable to the relief which the same amount can bring to war-stricken, starving Europe?

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and Secretary of War Newton D. Baker have been asked for a decision regarding the disposition of the $5,000,000 balance.

NEWBURGH WOMAN ATTACKED BY MAN

His Over Head With Knotted Rope
And Tied To Bed Posts—Intruder
Makes Escape With $1,000 Lost.
Shortly after ten o'clock Saturday morning, Mrs. Edward Heard of 25 Water street, Newburgh, heard a noise in the room adjoining her kitchen. Believing it was rats she stepped in the room, and was startled to see a man ransacking a dresser. Before she could make any outcry, the man grappled with her, and then hit her over the head with a knotted rope, rendering her unconscious. He then tied the woman's hands very tightly behind her back and thrust her hands and feet to the bed posts.
The intruder then went through the house and left with $1,000 in cash and Liberty Bonds. The woman was discovered by a neighbor. She soon regained consciousness.

"Dutch Detective" to Be Given at St. Peter's Hall.
The Glee Club of St. Peter's parish have prepared a farce comedy entitled, "The Dutch Detective," for the amusement of the parishioners and friends this evening and Tuesday evening in St. Peter's hall. Judging from the past performances in which the local amateur talent displayed itself to advantage, a very enjoyable evening is to be expected. As a departure from the melodrama a comedy has been chosen which should provoke a laugh from the most downhearted in the audience. Immediately after the entertainment dancing will be enjoyed to the strains of Balfe's very popular orchestra. According to a happy and well established custom refreshments will be served by the Christian Mothers and Children of Mary.
The following is the cast of characters:

WESOLOWSKI TO RANDALL'S ISLAND

This morning, as stated elsewhere, John Wesolowski was arraigned in police court on a charge of stealing two children of William Cole of No. 271 Second avenue, and the trial was adjourned for two weeks at the request of John's lawyer, Judge Brunner, Jr., and bail fixed at $200. After disposition had been made of that case John was immediately re-arrested by the police on a charge of violating his parole from Randall's Island, where he had been committed some time ago and released on parole pending good behavior. He was taken to the county jail to await the arrival of the Randall's Island authorities, they having notified the police to hold John for them.

"You may have heard of me—I am Doctor Brakby," the pompous gentleman announced in the "smoking compartment."
"All, then I have the opportunity to thank you for what you did for me," the quiet young fellow responded. "I have benefited greatly by your treatment."
"Why—were you a patient of mine?" Though of course I couldn't possibly remember all—
"Oh, no; not I. But my uncle was, and I was his heir."—Town Topics

Rails and Research

THE New York Central Lines have placed orders for 184,275 tons of heavy open-hearth rails, enough to lay a new single track from St. Louis to New York.

In the New York Central research laboratories, out of the experience of never-ending road tests, has been developed the highest type of rail used in this country.

This search for absolute dependability in rails, to carry the weight of more and more powerful locomotives and heavier trains, insures the safety and comfort of the millions of passengers who ride each year on the New York Central Lines.

The rail ingots are made on precise physical and chemical specifications. From the time the ore enters the furnaces until the rails emerge from the great rollers, every step in the process is in conformity to the most rigid scientific requirements and under the eyes of New York Central rail experts.

When fabricated, the rails are subjected at the steel mills to exacting tests in machines of scientific precision. These tests are for the purpose of making certain that the finished rails are as nearly flawless as it is humanly possible to make them, and will withstand the strains of the heaviest traffic.

The 1921 rail order is an important part of the program of after-war rehabilitation undertaken by these Lines in order that they may efficiently perform a maximum share of the work of national transportation.

LEGISLATURE'S WORK FOR WEEK

Governor's Traction Message to Be Received Tonight and Housing Problem Is Next to Be Tackled.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Jan. 24. New York city's traction and housing tangles in need of legislative unraveling bid fair to be placed on the road to solution by the legislature this week.

Governor Miller will take up the traction matter in a special message to the lawmakers tonight. He may take up the traction needs of the entire state although this is regarded as somewhat doubtful in view of the increasing opposition to the proposed re-introduction of the Jenks bill which would deal more particularly with the up-state trolley situation.

Disposition of the Lockwood's housing committee's request for extended life and additional powers to permit inquiry into the conduct of banks and insurance companies, is expected this week. The senate finance committee is scheduled to meet Tuesday to decide what grants should be allowed the committee. Chairman Joseph A. McGinnies of the assembly ways and means committee and Speaker Macdonald of the assembly are expected to participate in the conference.

Conference decision is expected to be preceded by introduction tonight of a bill which would empower the committee to grant immunity to witnesses, some of whom have appeared a little reluctant to testify because of fear of possible reprisals. This power, if granted, according to Senator Charles C. Lockwood, chairman of the committee, will "break down the wall of silence" which has surrounded the men higher up in the New York city investigation.

Senator Ward V. Tolbert of Westchester is expected this week to move for early passage of his bill extending the powers of the governor under the Moreland act to permit executive investigation of city and county administrations. The bill which was introduced a week ago is now before the judiciary committee. It follows out recommendations of Governor Miller in his message to the legislature.

In some quarters, Governor Miller is believed to be seeking this authority not only to correct flagrant abuses in municipal administrations when they arise, but also a club to force real enforcement of the state prohibition enforcement laws once they are enacted.

Discussing the whole question of enforcement of law, the governor said:

"It is not my duty to enforce a law but it is my duty to see that the laws are properly enforced by those entrusted with the task of enforcement."

Actual proceedings to investigate the qualifications of the three Socialist members of assembly will begin Tuesday when the judiciary committee meets to take up the resolutions pending for their ouster. The committee at this meeting is expected to receive the report of the sub-committee headed by Assemblyman George H. Rowe of Buffalo which has been probing the eligibility of Henry Jaeger of Brooklyn. A report is also expected on the contests instituted against the seating of the three Bronx assemblymen, Thomas J. McDonald, Joseph V. McKee and Edward J. Walsh, Democrats. The senate committee on privileges and elections will report on the seating of Abraham L. Katlin and George H. Taylor, New York Republicans.

RURAL SCHOOL SURVEY SOON

Final arrangements for starting the actual work of studying the New York state rural school conditions, with a view to making recommendations to the rural people of the state for the improvement of the schools, were made at a meeting of the rural education committee of twenty-one at Syracuse on January 14. The committee is composed of representatives of farmers and educational organizations and is the result of a demand of farmers for better rural educational facilities for their children.

Educational experts of national reputation were engaged by the committee to begin the studies. Among those who will have charge of the different phases of the work are Dr. C. H. Judd, of the School of Education of the University of Chicago, who will direct the study of the organization and administration of the rural schools, and Dr. Harlan Updegraff, of the University of Pennsylvania, who will inquire into the financing of the rural schools.

Dr. Updegraff told the committee of twenty-one that he hopes to be able to recommend changes in the financing of the rural schools that will eliminate waste, equalize the tax burden and give more and better service to the boys and girls for the money which is now being expended. He will study the problem of the unfairness of tax assessment between different districts and different sections. He will inquire especially into the unfairness which seems to prevail between the tax rate for the support of the schools in the country districts and the villages and cities. Rural schools cost more and render much poorer service dollar for dollar than the city schools.

Dr. W. C. Bagley of Teachers' College of Columbia University will make a study of the whole subject of qualifications of teachers and of courses of study of the rural schools. Miss Mabel Carney of Columbia University will study the relations between rural schools and the communities in which they are located. Dr. Julian E. Butterworth of the New York State College of Agriculture will make an investigation of the rural school buildings.

Working with these experts will be men like Dr. George F. Warren and Professor H. E. Babcock of the New York State College of Agriculture, and practical farmers from different rural communities who are not necessarily educational experts but who have practical knowledge of the viewpoint and needs of rural people.

Hearings and mass meetings will be held in different parts of the state to get the advice and suggestions of farmers and to place before them the recommendations of the educational investigators. The fundamental principle upon which the committee is working is to adopt no policy or recommendation until it has the full approval of those most Acetic Ether.

Acetic ether is more generally known as acetic ester. It is an ester of acetic acid, especially the ethylester or ethyl acetate, a colorless liquid of agreeable odor. The aroma of vinegar is partly due to its presence. Acetic ester is obtained by the action of metallic sodium on the ester formed by the union of acetic acid and ordinary alcohol. Acetic acid is the sour principle of vinegar, an acid composed chemically of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen.

DRESSMAKING COURSE BEGINS

On Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Decker at Brunswick a meeting was held to discuss organizing a Home Bureau for Shawangunk. After the reports of the temporary committee were heard, it was voted to organize a Home Bureau and to take up the dressmaking course as the first piece of work, following that possibly with the home nursing course. The temporary committee elected at a previous meeting to lead out the interest of the women in a Home Bureau, reported a total of 23 members and the promise of several more if a Home Bureau was organized. Those on this committee were Mrs. Fred Terwilliger, Mrs. F. W. Meredith, Mrs. Clarence Schenck, Mrs. William Carr and Mrs. Ross Crook.

The clothing course was then begun at this meeting by Miss Stuart, Home Bureau manager, with a talk and demonstration on "The Renovation of Materials," including the dry cleaning process, and points on the care of garments to avoid unnecessary pressing.

On Friday afternoon in the school house the New Hurley Home Bureau held its first meeting of the new year. After a short business session, the clothing course was begun by Miss Stuart with a talk on "The Choice of New and the Renovation of Old Materials." This included testing materials to detect adulteration and the points on renovation of materials as mentioned above.

At this meeting several new members were reported by the committee.

Miss William New Hurley started up to their guests. Those on the committee are Mrs. Frank Schoonmaker, Mrs. Peter Wilkins, Mrs. M. Mackey and Mrs. William Collins.

house corner John and Wall where the Crosby Building now stands. The DuMont House on Albany avenue where John Kerr of this city church built his home, was a historical spot you see. The Minor House still standing on St. James street is old, also the Cooper house foot of John street.

I show you the old house formerly on corner of St. James and Wall, also the Chipp and Herzog houses.

Mrs. Gordon's house was the Van Buren House, Menden Lane and Green, and opposite is mine, formerly owned by Major Valtelle's grandfather. Charred beams remain. In all these houses showing the marks left by the British. I punched a hole in my house to make a window and found there had been a window there before and beams showed, burned when the patriots fled to Hurley by way of North Front street and Hurley Road driven out by superior forces. The Van Buren House on Green street foot of St. James dates from 1812, built by a naval officer.

The Jackson House stood where Rodney Osterhout and A. R. King live on Maiden Lane. An ancient house was taken down to make way for John Campbell's house on St. James street. Mrs. Searling's house Pearl street corner of Washington avenue, is shown as also the house, Pearl street corner of Washington avenue near North Front.

The Douglass House down Frog Alley is shown. This was the King's Highway leading across the creek to Albany. The old Hasbrouck House still appears, corner of North Front and Crown. The Misses Forsyth mansion, Pearl and Fair streets, was built after the Revolution and was in part a bank. The Burhans house, built prior to 1820 where Arthur Carr's establishment is now, stood on corner of Pearl and Albany avenues. Dr. Collier's on Manor avenue is an old house. Mrs. Williams Carter of this church owns the Thomas Chambers Manor, "Vauxhall," the old house also shown here being replaced.

F. G. Schmidt of this city built his fine estate on the site of an old place also. Here is a picture of Wall street of the '30s and one in the '60s. Also of the Civil war troops drilling on Barnum's Commons, formerly Schwalbach's, the 120th, with Major Valtelle as drummer boy.

A picture of Major Everett is shown taken in 1867 among his troops in blue. The Lincoln memorial service held in front of the Eagle Hotel in 1865 is our next picture in which D. W. Sparling, Albert Nichols and others are clearly seen; also the small boy in front as intensely interested is C. V. A. Decker, senior warden of this church.

The Eagle was a large white frame building located on present site. Main and Fair street was a very interesting corner 40 years ago or more. The Kingston Trust Co. was a residence and bank with a garden and wall around it. "Billy" Hamilton kept a store where the Burgevin building stands. I can see ourselves now as boys helping each other off the shelves and paying "Billy." The candy must have been 15 years old but they tasted good just the same.

There was a tollgate between here and Rondout near where the car barn now is. But the people began to go down by way of Hasbrouck avenue at Prince street and the tollgate was moved up to about where the West Shore crossing is. The horse car line ran through John street to Fair from Green and had straw on the floor to keep passengers warm. Fare was 19 cents in those days.

Here are the churches of Kingston, the old First Dutch, the Second Dutch before the tower blew down and the old Methodist Church on Fair street. Also the old parsonage of the Fair Street Reformed Church where Doctor Noyes lived so long. Here is St. John's in 1870. This church was started in 1832 on the present lot in the heart of of Wall street. Only $550 was paid for the lot in those days. I show you the exterior in 1870 and the interior then and in 1887. I like to think of the men attending St. John's in those days, never missing a Sunday. I can see them now, leading men of the town: Edward Winter, Robert Herdman, John Kerr, William G. Hayes, Charles D. Bruyn, James G. Lindley, Augustus Reynolds, William B. Fitch, Julius Osterhout, Frank Waters, General Sharpe for a time, Charles A. Fowler and others. I remember just where they sat. I have sat in the same pew for 30 years. Here is a picture which will interest all who recall Mr. Fitch, the carriage of William B. Fitch in front of St. John's Church with Tom Tilford on the box. Mr. Fitch was the first attendant at St. John's to drive to church with team and carriage. Tilford formerly drove the Gleiser & Delaware plank road stage coach for years and was an expert reinsman. Mr. Delafield came up from New York as a temporary supply as rector of St. John's Church and organized the first boys' choir. A prominent member of the church saw the candles burning and walked out saying we were all going to the dogs! All later became pleased with the idea.

I congratulate the members of the Men's Club on the condition of the church under Dr. Williams. In the old days all those leading men were expected at the end of the year to put their hands in their pockets to make up a large deficit. I believe the man who has brought things to the present fine state, with a surplus in the finances of the church, is, next to the rector, your senior warden, C. V. A. Decker. (Applause.)

And the ladies of the church deserve great praise. I thank you for permitting me to trespass on your time and assure you of my support at all times. (Applause.)

Rector Leighton Williams expressed the pleasure of the club at hearing Captain Fowler, President William C. DeWitt called for a ringing vote of thanks which was unanimously given.

Among the guests of the club were Major James H. Everett, Major Valtelle and others.

Chin chow was then served by the members to all, which was heartily enjoyed.

ADULTERATED MILK

And Cream Found By State Inspectors.

Reports submitted to Commissioner of Agriculture George E. Hogue, following inspections made in various parts of the state, show that many restaurants, hotels and other eating places, in which milk and cream are sold, are not complying with the standards provided by the agricultural law with regard to these commodities. As a result of this, a number of actions have been brought against restaurant proprietors alleging adulteration. One of the important functions of the division of agriculture is to provide protection to consumers against adulterated or impure milk or cream. It is most important to the consumer that the law relative to cream and milk be observed, and that when he orders cream or milk that he shall be served with a product containing the required amount of fat.

The agricultural law provides that adulterated cream shall be construed as cream containing less than eight per centum of milk fat or cream to which any substance has been added. It is also pointed out that the law requires that "milk and cream" must be a mixture of milk and cream containing at least ten per centum of milk fat.

K. H. S. QUINTETS ALL WON FRIDAY

Friday evening proved to be a lucky time for the Kingston High School basketball teams. The Boy's Varsity and Midget teams defeated the Albany Academy Varsity and Junior teams on the local High School court, while the Girls' Varsity team journeyed to Middletown and annexed another victory from the girls of the Middletown High School.

The Kingston High School Girls' Varsity team is a fast quintet of players and their speed and perfect passwork completely bewildered the Middletown girls. However, they had the advantage of being on their home court and succeeded in tying the score at the end of the third quarter. At this time, the score stood 9 to 9, but the local girls did not rest in the last period and nosed out ahead as the victors with a 12-9 tally.

The game was a most interesting contest from the opening whistle until the final one.

Miss Anna Bryne proved to be the star point-getter for the local quintet, scoring nine out of the twelve points and equalling the score of the losing team.

There was a crowd of at least a thousand people out to witness the game. Preceding the girls' game, a team of professionals from New York played the Co. I team of Middletown. The summary:

CADDOCK MEETS LEWIS TONIGHT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 24.—Ed Lewis will defend the world's catch-as-catch-can wrestling title here tonight.

The champion will take on Earl Caddock, of Iowa, in a final match at the 71st Regiment Armory. One fall will decide the contest.

The deadly headlock versus the head scissors will be the order when the gladiators swing into action. Lewis will depend on his famous hold to defeat Caddock, who says he has no fear of it and expects to prevent the "strangler" from clamping it on successfully.

Caddock's head scissors is a close relative of the headlock. When properly applied it is just as "persuasive." But the Iowa has many other holds which will be brought into play. He is known as the "wrestler of a thousands holds."

Lewis, too, is familiar with every scientific hold known to the wrestling fraternity and indications are that the match will be one of the most bitterly contested ever staged here.

The rival wrestlers have met several times before. On the occasion of their last meeting at Des Moines in June, 1920, Caddock was returned the winner. He defeated Lewis with the head scissors and is confident that he can repeat tonight and regain the championship.

MONBACCUS.

Monbaccus, Jan. 24.—Earl Caddock spent from Tuesday until Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berger of Granville.

A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Quick last Monday evening to greet Mrs. Quick on her birthday. Refreshments were served at a late hour when all departed wishing Mrs. Quick many happy birthdays.

Those who called at Albert Caddock's Sunday were the Misses Elizabeth Flots and Ethel Quick, Ernest Simpson, Kerwin Dyer, Raymond Conner and Rockwell Quick.

A dance was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Caddock on Thursday evening. Dance music was played by John Terwilliger and Jerry Van Kleeck. All had a fine time.

Mrs. Albert Caddock called on Mrs. Clark Quick Tuesday and spent the day.

Summers Lost At Auction.

The Phoenix basketball team which was defeated two weeks ago by the Romans of this city came back Saturday evening and defeated the Romans to the tune of 25 to 14, at the Alhambra Hall. The local boys got off to a bad start and were never able to catch up with the Phoenix players.
